Fire election next Monday.

Usual prayer meeting this evening in the M. E. church, at half past seven.

To-day is the eleventh anniversary of the organization of Astoria Engine Co., No. 1.

At the last meeting of the Board of Fire Delegates the late election was ratified. The new officers will take charge on the 1st of October.

We are requested to say that the reward offered for the recovery of Frank Brown's body was fifty dollars, and not one hundred, as stated in yesterday morning's issue.

P. S. Dorney, who "whooped it up" for our Democratic brethren last June, left on yesterday morning's boat for San Francisco. He says he wants to help to elect Steneman for Governor.

Dr. E. T. Balch, of South Bend, was among our callers yesterday. He tells of various improvements in his section and was much pleased at the evidence of prosperity and enterprise that our city shows.

Blood-red and shorn of his rays the sanguinary sun sank last evening into the waves of the Pacific, and the thermometers that all day danced among the nineties indicated more comfortable figures.

The British ship City of Nebo has 400 tons of gas coal aboard, intended for Portland, but being billed for Astoria, a special permit must be obtained from Washington before the transfer can be made.

Hot, hotter, hottest; hottestot, hottentotter, hottentottest, hottentottismo; what have we done that those torrid dwellers in the interior should send down a sample of their sultry and soul-destroying breezes?

The Gen. Miles will leave Gray's dock at five o'clock this morning for Tillamook with freight and passengers for Hobsonville and Garibaldi.
If this hot weather continues, sea excursions will be all the go.

F. C. Young, whose pleasant face has so long been seen at C. H.
Cooper's, went below on yesterday's steamer to San Francisco. From there Mr. Young intends to go to Seattle, where he will open a large clothing and dry goods store.

Do not forget to make your arrangements to-day for the Y. M. C. A. picnic and excursion to Young's river falls on the favorite steamer Clara Parker to-morrow. With such splendid weather and good company a pleasant time for all is assured.

From parties resident in Pacific county we learn that the continued drouth has seriously interfered with their operations, and in some places the crops have been suffering in the want of rain; 'Tis a new experience for this moist northwestern coast.

There are 3301 members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen in the jurisdiction of Oregon, last year. Thirty deaths have occurred during the year, for which $2,000 has been paid on each; making $40,000 paid for death assessments, making a fraction over $13.00 to the member.—Journal.

SHOT IN THE BREAST.

Serious Wounding of M. A. Stebb.

At an early hour yesterday morning Police Officer M. A. Stebb was shot and dangerously wounded by Frank Horne, whom he was about to arrest at Stebb's Varieties. For some time had feelings have existed between Horne and a young man named Jas.
Gardiner. Horne plays the violin in the establishment and Gardiner en-terprised the proper replacement of the ten-pins in the bowling alley. The original difficulty seems to be a discussion as to which of the two had for the time gained the lattered and second-hand affections of a lady who constitutes one of the principal attractions of the place and who rejoices in the euphonious cognomen of "Birdie".

Her coy blandishments had so won the susceptible feelings of Horne that he declared that Gardiner should leave, and displayed a revolver. Gar-diner, not being just then supplied with a pistol, attempted to push Horne down stairs and then got away. But he didn't push hard enough, for Horne recovered himself before he got to the bottom and, drawing his revolver, fired at Gardiner, the bullet taking effect in the fleshy part of the left arm.

A cry of "police" was raised, and Officer Stebb, who was on his regular beat, was called in to arrest Horne.
Not caring to face him while on the stairs, Stebb climbed up one of the awning posts and started in through the front window in the second story. As he got into the room Horne fired at him, but without effect, and Stebb returned the fire, the bullet striking him in the side and passing just underneath the skin, inflicting a slight flesh wound. Horne then ran into the back part of the building and lurking in one of the doors, secreted himself. As Stebb advanced along the corridor, Horne appeared and fired again, the bullet striking Stebb in the right breast, penetrating the lung and lodging at the shoulder blade about six inches below his right shoulder. Stebb put both his hands to his breast, staggered out of the house and made the best of his way to the Occident, where the watchman got a coach and had him immediately conveyed to the hospital.

Dr. Baker being summoned to attend the wounded man, Horne jumped upon a shed roof, dropped underneath the planking of the dock, and made his way along the under beach in water waist deep past Gray's dock, the Main street wharf, and so on up to Case's steps at the foot of Cass street, where he started for a house on the roadway where his brother-in-law lives. The entire police force were immediately in pursuit and Policeman Hunter discovering his whereabouts notified Chief Laughrey, who went up and found him in bed.

He was taken to the county jail.
Gardiner was carried by some of his friends to the hospital. He has a flesh wound in his right shoulder and a bullet imbedded in his left hand.
He is not in any danger.

Stebb, the wounded officer, better known as "Big Steve," is a large and powerfully built man, is a Dane, and is married; his wife and child were in attendance at the hospital ward yesterday morning. He was a good police officer, and received the cowardly shot while in the faithful discharge of his duty. At a late hour last evening he was resting easily.

Despite the city ordinance it is a common practice to carry concealed weapons, and a good many are altogether too quick in making use of them. It is a bad state of affairs when a policeman cannot arrest a pimp, who has nothing but the form of a man about him, without placing his life in danger.

Another Wonderful Discovery!

It has been discovered within the last few days that the nicest place to buy your fall stock of provisions is at A. M. Johnson's.

It has also been discovered that the largest and best lighted store is A. M.
Johnson's.

Also that he has nothing but first-class goods at very low prices. Also that the children are waited on immediately. Also that your goods are sent to your house, on the instant, and the ladies know that it is the cheapest grocery store in town, and please not forget it.

portations.

A Ride to The Seaside.

Ed. ASTORIAN:

Last Saturday I boarded the O. R.
& N. Co's magnificent steamer S. G.
Reed, at Astoria, for a trip to the seaside. At 1:30 p. m. the lines were let go and we steamed down past the city front, around Smith's Point and headed for the mouth of Lewis and Clark river. Arriving at the landing, which is about two miles up the stream, at 2 p. m., we find one of Judge McGuire's four-horse stages waiting, which reminds us of earlier days before the iron horse took the place of so many stage lines. As the landing was made all make a rush for their favorite seat in the stage. In the stage I find myself in company with Mr. Geo. W.
Wilder and Jas. Holladay of Portland.
Columbus Brown, inspector at Astoria, Judge J. Q. A. Bowley, and J.
C. Ross, O. R. & N. Co's freight clerk, of Astoria. Twenty minutes' ride brings us to the intersection of the Lewis and Clark and the Skipanon roads, leaving Skipanon landing about 3 miles to the north. Here we leave the thick timber and come out on the beautiful plains of Clatsop, where we see the farmer busy gathering in his hay, oats, potatoes, etc. preparatory for the winter. As we ride along we see large droves of sheep and herds of cattle. The driver kindly informs us that the chief products of the plains are wool, butter and cheese. Among the many farms we pass is the Farmers' Clatsop cream cheese factory, owned by Mr. West, successor to Mr.
Batterfield. This place is about half way, or 7 miles, from the landing to the seaside. We arrive at the seaside about 5 p. m. Here we find two hotels fitted up for the especial comfort of the pleasure seeker. The ride of 15 miles and the bracing sea breeze having given all a good appetite, we will adjourn for dinner and say more anon.

TRAVELER.

A Denial.

We, the undersigned fishermen, whose boats were lost on the trip to Gray's harbor August 20th, hereby certify that we exonerate Mr. J. W. Hume from all blame on account of the disaster of that date, and that the statements in the article "Hear the Other Side" in THE ASTORIAN of August 20th, signed by one Clark Hanson, are untrue.

John Marandich, Carl Maltich, Enrico Cecotti, Peter Corasovich.

Still Another Story.

ASTORIA, Aug. 23, 1882.

EDITOR DAILY ASTORIAN:

I see in today's issue of your paper a communication from Clark Hanson, regarding the accidental drowning of Andrew and Amos Johnson while being towed out on the bar by the tug Gen.
Miles, on Saturday, Aug. 20th.

Mr. Hanson has either been misinformed or he has willfully misrepresented the facts, and in justice to Mr. Hume and Capt.
Whitecomb I will say that Mr. Hume paid the same price for the fare of his fishermen, whether they rode on the steamer or in the boat, and his object in requesting (not ordering) them, except a man that he did not want to go in the boat, was that should the low line clash, the men would be in the boat to attend to the line; and as Capt. White-comb has towed fishing boats to Tillamook, Shoalwater Bay and Gray's harbor, with men in them, several times, he thought there would be no danger in doing so in this case. Hanson says, "no man of ordinary common sense and understanding, etc., would have attempted to cross the Columbia bar with a string of boats and their living freight, unpro-vided for cases of emergency." I do not know what he means, as every boat had an anchor and line and oars in it; if they did not have two or three pairs of oars they could have had them by taking them, as I know a pile of fifty or sixty extra oars were put on the Miles, and if the fishermen were so sure of the danger why did they not cut the line that held them to the steamer and let go their anchors? They had everything in their boats except sails and as there was no wind, sails would have done no good.

The bar was not what pilots call breaking, but a nasty chop caused by the tide running against the swell, and two boats rode the waves all right and were far enough out to avoid the white caps (or short breakers) that caught the last boat and capsized it in an instant, drowning the two men, who were only seen once after they were in the water.

No one can regret the death of these men more than Mr. Hume and Capt.
Whitecomb, not because they were considered by the accident, but because they were acquainted with them and were brother Masons and Old Fellows.

Various Cures.

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely. AYUR'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors.
By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brassy, weak, or sickly hair, on which a few ap-lications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Hurries and sure in its operation, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts. It contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil or render white countences. It lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous.

Peruvian Bitters.

Cinchona Balm.
The Count Cinchon was the Spanish Viceroy in Peru in 1826. The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermittent fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the Peruvian bark, or, as it was called in the language of the country, "Quinquina".
Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe in 1827, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnaeus called it Cinchona, in honor of the lady who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the Indies.

To this day, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, science has given us nothing to take its place. It effectually cures a morbid appetite for stimulants, by restoring the natural tone of the stomach. It attacks excessive love of liquor as it does a fever, and destroys both alike. The powerful tonic virtue of the Cinchona is preserved in the Peruvian Bitters, which are as effective against malarial fever today as they were in the days of the old Spanish Viceroys. We guarantee the ingredients of these bitters to be absolutely pure, and of the best known quality.
A trial will satisfy you that this is the best bitter in the world. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and we willingly abide this test. For sale by
